Group Health Cooperative Foundation Awards $51,000 In Quarterly Grants

The Foundation for Group Health Cooperative of Puget Sound has awarded $51,070 for seven health-related projects and programs.

The largest grant -- $11,506 -- will fund a study to better understand the problem of low back pain from the perspectives of both patients and health care providers.

Being conducted by the Cooperative's Center for Health Studies, the project is viewed as a first step to identify, implement and evaluate improved methods of caring for sufferers of low back pain.

A $10,000 grant was awarded to the Country Doctor Clinic on 15th Avenue East to support its relocation to a new clinic. The Capitol Hill neighborhood clinic served 10,000 people last year, 98 percent of whom could not afford other kinds of medical attention.

The Center for Health Studies will receive $8,001 to examine women's attitudes regarding screening for breast cancer. The goal of the project will be to develop a process to increase participation in the Cooperative's early detection-oriented Breast Cancer Screening Program.

A grant for $7,267 will be used to study the value of two related outpatient diagnostic tests. The Upper Gastrointestinal series (UGIS) and the Primary Diagnostic Gastrointestinal Edoscopy (PRIDGE) are both currently in use. The research will seek to determine if PRIDGE is faster, provides results that are equally or more satisfying to both patients and physicians, and is the less expensive of the two procedures.

A project conducted by the Center for Health Studies to assess the feasibility and effectiveness of counseling and health education to prevent teenage pregnancy was granted $5,275.

A grant of $5,021 will be used to study the effects of a professional governance structure on the decision-making behaviors of registered nurses at the Cooperative.

A $4,000 grant will be used by the Community Volunteer Program to provide additional in-home help and support for frail and home-bound individuals and families.

The Foundation for Group Health Cooperative awards grants quarterly to projects in the areas of research, preventive care, health promotion and education.

Homeless

WASHINGTON - The director of the Office of Management and Budget said that the homeless of America were a problem for state and local governments, not for the Federal government.

In testimony before the House Budget Committee, James C. Miller 3d, the budget director, added that "there are a number of grants we have" to help local governments with programs for the homeless. But when he named one, the Community Services Block Grant, he was told by a Democratic member of the committee that the Reagan Administration had proposed eliminating this grant in its budget for the fiscal year 1987, which was prepared under Mr. Miller's supervision.

Before now, statements by President Reagan and his aides, have fueled criticism of the Administration attitude toward the homeless. The Department of Housing and Urban Development estimated in May 1984 that 250,000 to 350,000 people were homeless in America, a figure critics said was low.

Senate Republican leaders said that they did not expect Congress to pass to approve major portions of the 1986 deficit-reducing package that remained unpassed at the end of the last session of Congress. Both Democrats and Republicans had hoped they could begin this year by approving parts of the package. But the House and the Senate, cannot agree on a compromise that would also be acceptable to the White House, according to two key Senators, Pete V. Demenici, Republican of New Mexico, and Bob Packwood, Republican of Oregon.

It now appears that budget writers, instead, will use some of the saving proposals intended to cut the 1986 deficit as a starting point for a compromise on reduction of the 1987 deficit to the $144 billion ceiling set by the new budget-balancing law.

In other developments, Republicans and Democrats on the Senate Budget Committee said they were worried that a new Congressional Budget Office projection that shows the budget deficits declining from 1986 through 1991 even without further Congressional action, may undermine the deficit-cutting effort this year.

Lowering the Interest Costs

The main reasons for the declining path are lower projections for military spending and the estimation that interest payments on the national debt will be lower than projected, because the budget office now assumes the deficit.

The Administration's estimate is $38 billion. Just weeks ago estimates from the Congressional office and the Administration predicted that more than $50 billion in savings would be needed.

In the House Budget Committee's hearing, Mr. Miller's comments on the homeless were prompted by questions from

Words Of Wisdom

II CHRONICLES 30:1-24

And Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, to keep the passover unto the Lord God of Israel.

For the king had taken counsel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keep the passover in second month.

For they could not keep it at that time, because the priests had not sanctified themselves sufficiently, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem.

And the thing pleased the king and all the congregation.

So they established a decree to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the passover unto the Lord God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a long time in such sort as it was written.

So the posts went with the letters from the king and is princes throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and he will return to the remnant of you, that are escaped out of the hand of the kings of Assyria.

And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the Lord God of their fathers, who therefore gave them up to desolation, as ye see.

Now be ye not stiffnecked, as your fathers were, but yield yourselves unto the Lord, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: and serve the Lord your God, that the fierceness of his wrath may turn away from you.

For if ye turn again unto the Lord, your brethren and your cildren shall find compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land: for the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto him.

So the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh even unto Zebulun: but they laughed tem to scorn, and mocked them.

Neverthless divers of Asher and Manasseh and of Zebulun humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem.

Also in Judah the hand of God was to give them one heart to do the commandment of the king and of the princes, by the word of the Lord.

And there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast of unleavened bread in the second month, a very great congregation.

And they arose and took away the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron.

Then they killed the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month: and the priests and the Levites were ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought in the burnt offerings into the house of the Lord.

And they stood in their place after their manner, according to the law of Moses the man of God: the priests sprinkled the blood, which they received of the hand of the Levites.

For there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified: therefore the Levites had the charge of the killing of the passovers for every one that was not clean, to sanctify them unto the Lord.

For a multitude of the people, even many of Ephraim, and Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not cleansed themselves, yet did they eat the passover otherwise than it was written. But Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, The good Lord pardon every one.

That prepareth his heart to seek God, the Lord God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sancturay.

And the Lord hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people.

And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem, kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness: and the Levites and the priests praised the Lord day by day, singing with loud instruments unto the Lord.

And Hezekiah spake comfortably unto all the Levites that taught the good knowledge of the Lord: and they did eat throughout the feast seven days, offering peace offerings, and making confession to the Lord God to their fathers.

And the whole assembly took counsel to keep other seven days: and they kept other seven days with gladness.

For Hezekiah king of Judah did give to the congregation a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep; and the princes gave to the congregation a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep: and a great of priests sanctified themselves.

Workshop For Parents To Teach Kids How To Say No To Drugs

A "hands on" skill building workshop for parents who want to help their children say "NO" to drugs will be held Tuesday, March 4, at 7pm at the following locations: 1. Christ Lutheran Church 2. St. John Baptist Church 3. Steilacoom High School 4. Iva Alice Mann Jr. High 5. Lochburn Jr. High 6. Tillicum/American Lake Garden Community Center 7. Ford Middle School/Franklin Pierce School District.

The workshop is part of a joint project of KING-TV and The Lakewood Knights; Lion Club to help children "Get to No" about drugs.

A special docudrama about drug abuse and parental denial will air on KING-TV on Sunday, March 2. The workshop will build off the program.

"The show will be a perfect introduction to our workshops" says Eddie Griffin of The Lakewood Knights Lion Club. "It will help parents understand that we don't know everything we should about kids and drugs and if we don't take the lead, we know that no one else will. It's our responsibility."

"There will be two components to the workshop, says Eddie Griffn. "One workshop will be for parents with younger children. It will assist parents in teaching their children refusal skills."

"Another workshop, for parents with older children will show what the various drugs look like, how to tell whether your chld has a problem and what you can do about it."

Both workshops will be lead by trained facilitators.

For more information about the workshops, contact Eddie Griffin at 581-1105.

Women In Transition

The Tacoma/Pierce County YWCA begins a new session of Pre-employment Classes on Monday March 3rd. The class provides comprehensive instruction in Job Search Skills to homemakers who are interested in entering the work force for the first time or others who are making a career change.

The classes are held from 12:30 to 4:30 daily, Monday through Friday, for two weeks.

Participants can expect to learn how to write an effective resume, how to prepare for job interviews and how to use personal contacts. The class also includes confidence building, vocational interest testing, financial aid information, and labor market data.

Qualified applicants are often referred to employers for interviews.

The Women in Transition program also offers a Job Search Strategy Workshop for those with specific career goals. Resume writing, hidden job market and interviewing skills are covered. This two day workshop is scheduled for March 19th and 20th from 1:30 - 4:00.

For information and registration for either class or workshop call Frankie at 272-4181 or 597-6427.

Seattle Home Show In The Kingdome

Home improvement shows are popping up like spring mushrooms throughout the State of Washington, but the venerable Seattle Home Show, now turning 42, is the Big One with 400 exhibits attraction as many as 175,000 persons in a single nine-day run. The 1986 show takes place in the Kingdome March 1-9.

With a healthy mortgage climate financial counselors and veteran builders predict a busy spring because families whose home building or renovating plans have been on hold are encouraged to proceed.

The show is designed as an idea mart for both the professional builder and his clients and the do-it-yourself home improver whose numbers grow every year. They'll find every imaginable item for a home from the tiniest gadget to an entire house. Model kitchens and baths by the numbers, two model homes and an outdoor living/garden center will be special focal points.

Two levels of the Kingdome will be used for the 400 exibitors and their thousands of products. A feature on the upper level which attracts more attention every year is the arts/crafts/photography gallery. Both Seattle City Light and Puget Power will mount major displays and will have energy experts on hand to discuss conservation methods with consumers.

The Seattle Home Show is sponsored by the Seattle Master Builders Association and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Admission is $4.50 for adults ($2.50 for seniors Monday through Friday) and $1 for children, 6-15. Hours are noon-10p.m. Saturdays, noon-8:30p.m. Sundays and 1-10p.m. weekdays.

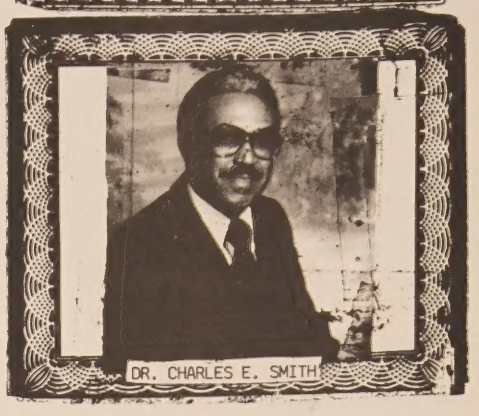
"The Doctor's Prescription"



Childish Thinking

Learning to think right is not an exercise which comes easy to any of us. Many of us, like children, experiment and probe and fall off things and burn our fingers in the process of learning how to think. First Corinthians 13:11-12 says: When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things. For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known.

Childish thinking is shortsightedness - to only "know in part...." Whenever we get to thinking too much about the temporal, the immediate rather than the eternal, we are thinking as a child. As adult christians, we need to learn "delayed gratification" the joys of doing without something comfortable and pleasant now so that we will be able to ejoy something that will be of much greater value in the future.

Then, we can be so preoccupied with our children's immediate comfort and happiness that we neglect the kinds of things that will make a difference in their future - the ability to do without, the ability to take responsibility, a fear of doing wrong, an appreciation for the right values. We need to love our children's future as well as their present.

Preoccupation with things that are "vain" is another sign of childish thinking. David said in Psalms 119:112-114: I have inclined mine heart to perform thy statutes alway, even unto the end. I hate vain thoughts: but thy law do I love. Thou art my hiding place and my shield: I hope in thy word.

What are some of the "vain" things that absorb too much of our thinking? A nice house? A second car? Clothes? A nice figure? Money?

The issue is not that ownership is wrong nor care of one's possessions or one's body. The question to ask about all the things which have become important to us is: "is this a tool or a toy?" Is this something God can use to glorify Himself or is it something that I have to have for my ego?

A careless, foolish mind is another indication of childish thinking. Proverbs 24:9 says: The thought of foolishness is sin: and the scorner is an abomination of men.

What kind of foolish thinking are a temptation to you? Perhaps we need to notice what we think is funny. How easy it is for us to fall into the pattern of laughing at things in the press and on television which mock what is holy and good.

May God protect us from childish thinking!

Titlow Lodge Accepting Quilt Show Entries

Titlow Lodge Recreation Center in Tacoma is still accepting quilted items - old or new - for exhibition in the award-winning quilt show "Once Upon a Patchwork" 10 a.m.-6 p.m. February 21-23 at the center.

Admission to the show is one dollar. The third annual show will feature quilting demonstrations by students in classes taught by Joanne Cross. Each session, Ms. Cross teaches some 100 students in quilting classes offered at Titlow Lodge, a facility of the Metropolitan Park District of Tacoma. In 1985, the show received an Arts and Humanities Award from the Pacific Northwest Regional Council of the National Recreation and Park Association.

Persons interested in exhibiting quilted items should contact Charnell Scotton, 591-5297, supervisor at Titlow Lodge. A selection committee will determine which items will be displayed.

Styles of quilts on display will include pieced, appliqued, Hawaiian, Amish, baby, embroidered, friendship and candlewick. Quilted clothing displays will feature vests, jackets, skirts, coats and aprons.

In the Christmas area, there will be quilted tree skirts, pillows, table runners, hangings, ornaments, stockings, bedspreads and coverlets.

Proceeds from the quilt show will go toward the purchase of equipment and items needed for the center.

To reach Titlow Lodge, take the Bremerton Exit (Highway 16) off I-5. Take the Sixth Avenue Exit off Highway 16. Follow Sixth Avenue west to the bottom of the hill (about two-and-a-half miles) to Titlow Park on the right. Titlow Lodge is the rustic building in the park.

New Meeting Time For Park Board

In a unanimous vote last night, the Board of Park Commissioners elected to move up their public agenda time from 7p.m. to 6p.m. The Board meets on the second and fourth Mondays of every month, at the Park District main office, 10 Idaho Street.

Executive session and any study session will precede the 6p.m. public meeting.

Jim Thomas, Park Board President, said he introduced the resolution to make the public meeting more convenient. "The 6p.m. meeting time will prevent our meetings from running late into the evening," said Thomas. "The earlier time should be more convenient for community members and for staff," he said.

Big Win For Easter Seals

KQ92's "Marathon Man" Kelly Stevens finished "first" for the Easter Seal Society after his 238 hour marathon ended at 2PM this past Saturday. Kelly's nonstop on-air "run" raised $4800.00 for Easter Seals with pledges from listeners, challenges from on-air advertisers and half the proceeds from ten different remotes. The "race" that started last Monday at 6AM, ended in Olympia's Capitol Mall with a 5-hour live broadcast where listeners and mall businesses made donations to the Fish Bowl between 9AM and 2PM.

Stevens is the morning man for Olympia's KQEU AM 920 "morning zoo" show at 6AM to 10AM. Last year, Kelly became the newest co-host of the Easter Seal Telethon and he will carry his "title" through this year as well. He says that this marathon was a "warm-up" for the big "race" in March and at this point, Kelly felt his next "exercise" was to tackle the nearest mattress.

The money raised by Kelly will benefit they many service prorams provided by the Easter Seal Society for disabled adults and children here in Washington State. The Easter Seal Society appriciates the extra effort by Kelly Stevens and congratulates him on a job well done.

New Director For Minority And Women's Business

Governor Gardner announced February 4, 1986 that Ralph C. Ruff had been appointed as the new Director of the Office of Minority and Women's Business Enterprises, effective immediately.

Mr. Ruff announced today that he visualizes many innovative changes in MWBE agency during the coming months. A high priority will be given to placing the agency in proper perspective. The MWBE program is a business development program, defining the functions of business development as an investment entered into by the state, in the future of al its citizenry.

The MWBE agency is charged with the development of minority and women entrepreneurs. In reality this is simply a good business practice. What is good for minority and women is good for business, good for the state and good for the taxpayer. To digest, it is simply utilizing all of the available expertise within the state in their professional functions as entrepreneurs.

Briefly, Mr. Ruff's background includes over twenty-five years experience in the federal government in the areas of procurement, industrial engineering and contract negotiating. His most recent position in the federal government was as Contracting Officer/Negotiator for the U.S. Small Business Administration's 8A program. After Mr. Ruff left federal service, he started his own company and was General Manager of Innovative Contractors, Inc. of Washington and Alaska, a certified Minority Business Enterprises. After appointment as Director of the Office of Minority and Women's Business Enterprises, Mr. Ruff sold his interest in that company.

Crime Stoppers

This week, Crime Stoppers will pay up to a $1,000.00 reward for information that leads to an arrest and felony charges filed in the following crime.

On Friday, February 7, 1986 at approximately 10:15a.m., the manager of the Finistere Apartments located at 601 No. Jackson St. was robbed by a lone gunman.

The suspect first came and looked at a vacant apartment with the manager. A short while later, he returned and asked to see a lease. She granted him entrance to her apartment and turned to get the lease that was in her living room.

When she turned around, the suspect pointed a handgun at her and demanded her money.

She gave him some cash she kept in her purse and he exited the apartment and fled in an unknown direction.

The suspect is described as a White Male, 6-0, 170#, wearing a gray cap and beige jacket.

First Retailer Store In Wash. To Install Seat Belts In Shopping Carts

Cherie Myers, Public Relations Manager for Safeway, commented that Safeway has installed the straps in their shopping carts as a preventive measure and as a service to customers who shop with small children.

The straps which are customer printed and made from durable woven textiles with high impact buckles and permanent fasteners, are manufactured by Safe-Strap Company, Inc. of Dover, NH.

Safe-Strap was started to pioneer shopping cart Safety Belts, according to President James Gaffney. He said the idea resulted from a Consumer Products Safety Commission report that there were 9,000 shopping cart accidents annually involving children under the age of 5.

The FIRST LADY has recognized and supports the efforts of Safeway and the NSCSC. Comments from mothers describe

Come To Church Services

ST. JOHN 10:1-11

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life the sheep.

SAILOR GIVEN LIFE IN OFFICER'S DEATH

Navy Had Sought Execution in the Killing of Lieutenant on a Ship off Bermuda

NEWPORT, R.I., Feb. 18 (AP) — A black sailor was sentenced today to life in prison for stabbing a white lieutenant to death aboard a Navy frigate at sea.

The sailor, Petty Officer 3d Class Mitchell T. Garraway Jr., was spared the death penalty by the eight-member court-martial that deliberated four hours on his sentence.

The same panel convicted Mr. Garraway, 22 years old, of Suitland, Md., on Jan. 30 of premeditated murder in the slaying of Lieut. James K. Sterner.

Mr. Garraway showed no emotion as Comdr. Jean R. Kendell, president of the court-martial, read the sentence, which included his dishonorable discharge and the forfeiture of pay.

Outside the building, Mr. Garraway said, "I'm satisfied with the decision they made today, but I'm very disappointed with the decision they made" on the premeditated murder conviction.

The sailor had testified he "just snapped" when he attacked the 35-year-old officer June 16, 1985, in a dark passageway while their ship, the Miller, cruised off Bermuda.

The Navy prosecutor, Lieut. Daniel E. O'Toole, had told the court-martial: "Capital punishment will guarantee the accused in this case won't kill again. The ultimate crime deserves the maximum sentence."

'Tore at Fabric of Discipline'

Lieutenant O'Toole's closing statement was the first time the Navy acknowledged it was seeking the death penalty as punishment for the slaying of the Lieutenant Sterner, who was the father of three.

"He tore at the very fabric of military order and discipline," Lieutenant O'Toole said. "As soon as we fail to protect those we place in positions of authority, then just as quickly do we fail in our mission of readiness."

Mr. Garraway, in a black dress uniform, sat impassively in the arguments, often staring at his lap. His mother and sister sat arm-in-arm in the Newport Naval Base courtroom.

His defense lawyer, Trevor L. Brooks, urged the jury to consider his client's "saving graces" and the testimony of experts who said Mr. Garraway was "destroyed or ravaged by a rotten childhood."

"I think the minimum sentence is too severe for someone of Mitch's background," Mr. Brooks said, speaking of life imprisonment. "We have a youngster who entered the Navy without the proper mettle and was destroyed because of it."

He described Mr. Garraway as hypersensitive to real or perceived racism as a result of a brutal stepfather who beat it into his mind that he could never back down in the face of discrimination.

The defense maintained that Mr. Garraway killed Lieutenant Sterner in a spontaneous outburst against an authority figure brought on by widespread racism aboard the Miller. The Navy has said Mr. Garraway mistakenly believed that Lieutenant Sterner had unfairly blocked a promotion months before.

The captain of the Miller, Comdr. William A. Coleman Jr., who is black, had testified that Lieutenant Sterner was not a racist.

Mr. Brooks and Lieutenant O'Toole debated whether Lieutenant Sterner was "in the execution of his office" when slain, an aggravating circumstance necessary for the panel to order Mr. Garraway's death.

A death sentence would have required a unanimous vote by the court-martial.

PREGNANT MOTHERS: PLEASE DON'T SMOKE!

If you are pregnant or planning a family, here are three good reasons to quit smoking now:

1. Smoking retards the growth of your baby in your womb.

2. Smoking increases the incidence of infant mortality.

3. Your family needs a healthy mother.

Please don't smoke for your baby's sake.

And yours.

Black History Month Quiz

In my previous column on my Black History Month Quiz, space did not permit me to deal with some new information and insights that I have come across. This column will deal with those subjects and pose some additional questions.

Before I do however, let me thank those of you who gave us such nice compliments for the free Black History Month special edition of Tony Brown's Journal Magazine. And for those who need literature for their school, church, club or business (to be distributed free of charge), you can receive the magazine for the cost of shipping ($20 for each box of 200) by writing me at 1501 Broadway, Suite 2014, New York, NY 10036 or calling (212)575-0876. For single copies send .88 cents in stamps.

Now, let's see how sharp you are. The answers, of course, are in the magazine.

For example, why was Tulsa, Oklahoma bombed from the air in 1921? Perhaps, I should say why was the Black community in Tulsa bombed. Prior to the 1985 incident in Philadelphia, this was the only American city ever bombed.

What African-American from Georgia became the confidential agent of Russian Czar Nicholas II? What Black slave determined the number of seconds in 70 years -- in his head- in only 90 seconds?

"The Real McCoy" has long been a term used to describe authenticity. What Black inventor was the term named for? What slave discovered a remedy for snakebite in 1700?

One African word for dancing is "jook." Some say "jute." Ever heard of a "jukebook"? The real story, however, comes out of the "juke joints" of ill-repute. It's all a part of the African-American experience.

True or false? Marcus Garvey was the founder of the National Negro Business League (now the National Business League) in 1900? If he was not, who was? And who was Garvey's hero?

What was the relationship between Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, and Marcus Garvey? What is meant by "The Gospel of Wealth"?

Did W.E.B. DuBois, known best for his "talented tenth" philosophy and integration, ever embrace nationalism. Is it true that DuBoise embraced segregation?

Garvey started the largest mass movement of Blacks in America. It is also true that eight Black leaders were behind Garvey's indictment and conviction and imprisonment.

The economic attempts of Blacks of the past and their opposition by other Blacks is a history lesson we need to learn before we are prepared to face racism.

The road map to the future lies in the past. During the month of February, my TV series is presenting "The Color of Freedom." It raises and answers these same questions.

Let's study together and learn to love together.

TONY BROWN'S JOURNAL TV series can be seen on public television Saturday, on Channel 9 at 12noon. It can also be seen on channel 62, Thursday at 10:30p.m. Please consult listings.

Majority Viewpoint

Sometimes it troubles me that a good deal of the legislative process is seen as more confusing than it really is. I suppose it's inevitable that a few of the procedures we follow will be almost impossible to explain to the people we represent. But most of them aren't. One issue that always raises a number of questions is that of deadlines and "dead" legislation.

Occasionally, people ask me why we call any bill dead before the session is over. Isn't it true, they ask, that we can pass any bill we want until we adjourn? Technically, we can, but the rules we've adopted to make things run more smoothly prevent it unless special action is taken. Although no bill is completely dead until the gavel falls on the final day of session, the various deadlines help provide necessary self-restraint.

The first deadline concerns the introduction of bills. This deadline, which fell on Jan. 24 this year, requires that almost all legislation be introduced early in the session. The only proposals that can be introduced after that time are budget and public works proposals, which are exempt from most of the deadlines.

The deadline for introducing bills forces legislators and other concerned parties to do their groundwork and research early, allowing the various committees plenty of time to examine the issues involved. It also keeps lawmakers from bogging down the entire process by introducing a large number of new proposals late in the session.

The second deadline, which has just passed, concerns comittee reports. By Friday, Feb. 8, all the policy committees had to make their recommendations concerning legislation that originated in their own house. In other words, Senate committees had to finish with Senate bills and House committees had to finish with House bills. The deadline for the two Ways & Means committees was Feb. 10.

The next deadline, which was Feb. 18. By that date, almost all legislation must be approved by the originating house. After this point, the Senate will be able to consider only House bills, while the House will be able to consider only Senate bills.

On Feb. 28, all policy committee reports on non-exempt legislation from either house will be due, while Ways & Means reports on such legislation will be due March 3. It's important that legislators not be tied down by committee hearings at this point, since the amount of time we need to spend on the House floor increases dramatically as the session nears adjournment.

On March 7, all legislation, including budget and public works proposals, will have to have passed both houses. Only issues concerning disagreement between the two houses on bills both have approved will be considered. This deadline, which is tighter than it has been in the past, will help us to adjourn by March 13, completing the session within the constitutionally-mandated 60 days.

These deadlines are more than an arbitrary group of dates, selected just to make things more difficult for those who don't know the process. They are designed to make things run more smoothly, to give us time to give those bills we do pass the attention they deserve, and to avoid a special session.

Those of us in public service often talk about efficiency in government. The Legislature is not exempt from that effort, and legislative deadlines are one way to make government efficiency a reality.

Social Services And Unemployment

EVERETT -- On my way home, Sunday night, about 11:00 p.m., I passed the unemployment office where I saw a strange phenomena. The parking lot was filled with cars. I asked someone crossing the street what was going on? They told me that they were handing out 200 job applications for Scott Paper Company.

A closer observation revealed that there were people virtually lining the sidewalks all around the one block square building. Some of the people were in lounge chairs, sleeping bags, on air matressess, on quilts and blankets and others pacing up and down the parking lot. Some were playing cards, reading papers and magazines. Others enjoyed conversations, while yet others were asleep. Suddenly I began hearing in my ears and heart the negative comments made by many who claimed that the unemployed and welfare recipients were those who were too lazy to work. It was difficult for me to reconcile those statements with what I was witnessing.

Being a semi-professional photographer, my first impression was to go home and get my camera, come back and take pictures and interview those who would permit and send the photos and comments to the President of The United States; to our local government; Mayors and County Constituencies.

I was somewhat reluctant to take pictures. I thought some persons might object to having their picture taken, but to my surprise they were very agreeable and cooperative.

The need to work had brought together people of different races, colors, religions etc...etc...

I said to one group, as I was photographing, "On the count of three, say money, that's what it is all about isn't it?" One lady interrupted: "What about food?" That's what this is all about! I guess that was really the bottom line!

These people had to have been desperate to spend all night long in parking lots and on sidewalks at a temperature of thirty-two degrees. Certainly this was not a front or an attempt to try to impress someone.

For the benefit of the critics that criticize so heavily the welfare recipients, many of the welfare recipients were in this number. Young girls; who perhaps some of your sons impregnated and sent them home to bear the responsibility alone, and some of those, perhaps were your daughters, who you put outdoors because they came home pregnant.

I am sure that some of those on welfare and disability have from time to time, turned down some of the meager jobs that paid minimum wages and less, which makes it appear that these people would rather stay on welfare or relief, but the real fact of the matter is that these jobs do not pay enough tomake it feasible for them to survive. If one can barely make it on welfare, it stands to reason that one would not be able to make it bringing in less than what welfare pays.

The problem is that our President, has a mentality that everyone should work. He is not really concerned about how much they make or how much it costs for one to survive under the present system. This is evident in that he desires to lower the minimum wage standard.

It is further revealed in the fact that the Federal and State Welfare relief programs do not have built into them any work insentives such as: Free Day Cares and then Discounted Day Cares until persons are able to financially carry the load. Free or discounted bus tokens to get back and forth to work; Free or discounted vouchers to obtain uniforms and tools and then provide the job. When we have done these things and our Welfare and Relief Constituencies fails to work, then we have the right to be critical and maybe even cut them off, if necessary.

This is not asking too much. I think that most of these programs are designed to fail in helping to develop self worth and marketable skills.

Your response is appreciated. If you agree, clip this article, Xerox it and send it to your President, Governor, Mayor etc...etc..

Thank you, Elder Jerry R. Ramsey, 1611 23rd St., Everett, Wa. 98201. 252-0402.

The Advantages Of Professional Money Management

Investing wisely, preventing your capital from eroding during inflationary periods and ensuring the growth of your assets in all economic environments have become increasingly difficult in recent years. The more volatile stock and bond markets make it particularly difficult for individual investors to pick securities and time purchases and sales.

We at Shearson Lehman Brothers find that, given these challenges, it is relatively easy for investors who manage their own portfolios to make any one of a number of investment errors: Fail to establish clear objectives, Select securities inconsistently, Have too many different issues for the total size of a portfolio (over-diversification), Fail to take losses promptly, Take profits too soon, Fail to adjust to changing markets, Ignore the tax effects of investment decisions, Know too little about alternative investments, Often select a broker or money manager for the wrong reasons.

If you spot some of your own investment errors in this list, you may want to consider turning over some or all of your investment funds to professional money managers, and obtain the advantages of professional guidance. Probably the easiest and most affordable way to get professional expertise is to invest in "managed products" - notably, mutual funds and unit trusts. You can search out funds and trusts that fit your investment goals, or your Financial Consultant can recommend suitable ones.

Both mutual funds and unit trusts pool your assets with those of many other investors to buy a diversified portfolio of securities you could not afford by yourself. Both are highly liquid investments - that is, you can easily sell your fund shares at their current market value. However, there are several differences between these two investment vehicles.

Mutual funds are actively managed. Securities are bought and sold regularly, according to managers' market judgments. Different types of funds are designed to meet varying investment objectives. Some funds invest primarily in stocks, while others may invest in bonds or money market instruments (such as CDs and treasury bills).

Minimum initial investments are generally $1,000 (or less), with subsequent investments as low as $100. In addition, open-ended mutual funds, which deal directly with investors and always stand ready to sell or buy their shares at current net asset value, offer investors the flexibility to exchange shares within the fund group, reinvest dividends and purchase additional shares.

Unit trusts are typically sold in increments of $1,000 and are passively managed. Once the managers select the securities for the trust's portfolio (usually comprised of government bonds, corporate bonds, municipal bonds or equities) its composition is fixed. Nothing is bought, and nothing is sold. About 65% of all unit trusts invest chiefly in municipal bonds, whose income is not subject to federal income tax. A growing number invest only in municipal issues from individual states, such as New York or California, so that the income is also exempt from state and city income taxes.

More personalized portfolio management is also within your reach as your investments become more substantial. Investors with accounts worth at least $50,000 can have their portfolios guided by an individual investment management service. A key advantage of some exclusive services is the daily attention an individual portfolio receives, including such as activities as buying/selling securities.

No matter how much you like to make your own investment decisions, you should put the professionals to work with at least part of your portfolio. Your Financial Consultant can advise you on the best ways to do this, given your assets, objectives and style of investing.

Homeless

Representative Mike Lowry, Democrat of Washington, Mr. Lowry started by asking if the homeless were a problem in the United States.

Mr. Miller said 'yes,' then added, 'It is a very bad thing; it tugs on one's heart strings.'

But he added, "We believe the homeless are not a Federal responsibility but a state and local responsibility."

When he said the Government had grants to help states, Mr. Lowry asked which ones. After some prompting by Mr. Lowry, Mr. Miller named the Community Services Block Grants. Then Mr. Lowry, Mr. Miller named the Community Services Block Grants. Then Mr. Lowry pointed out that the Administration's budget proposes eliminating the grants in 1987 for a savings of $306 million. Mr. Miller had no answer to this but said he would talk to his staff about the details.

Mr. Lowry, after the hearing, said that the Administration in its 1987 budget proposed eliminating $70 million for the homeless that was in the 1986 budget of the Federal Emergency Management Agency. He also said the Administration had proposed cuts in the community grant program, which local governments could use to assist the homeless.

In December 1983, Edwin Meese 3d, then counselor to the President and now Attorney General, spurred a controversy over the issue of the homeless, when he said, "I think some people are going to soup kitchens voluntarily. I know we've had considerable information that people go to soup kitchens because the food is free and that's easier than paying for it."

In January 1984, Mr. Reagan said that he thought some of the homeless people sleeping on grates in cities were doing so "by choice."

Veterans

December and January.

More than 2.2 million veterans currently receive compensation totaling more than $8.2 billion a year. The rate adjustment means an increase from $1,295 to $1,335 per month for a veteran with a disability rated at 100 percent. Veterans with a 50 percent disability will receive $388 a month, up from $376, and those with a 10 percent rating will get $68 a month, up from $66.

The legislation also increases to $360 the annual allowance payable in August to certain veterans whose artificial limbs or wheelchairs cause wear on their clothing.

In addition, the law provides a 3.1 percent increase in dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) rates for surviving spouses and children of veterans who died in service or of service-connected causes.

Some of the Hearty Classics of France

Beans Breton With Tomatoes

1 pound dried white navy or kidney beans or peas or flageolets
8 cups water
Salt to taste
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1 carrot, scraped
1 onion, peeled and studded with 2 cloves
1 bay leaf
1 clove garlic, peeled and left whole
2 parsley sprigs
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup finely chopped onions
1 tablespoon finely chopped garlic
2 cups crushed imported tomatoes
2 sprigs chopped fresh thyme or ½ teaspoon dried
4 tablespoons chopped parsley.

1. Put the beans in a mixing bowl and add water to cover to a depth of about 2 inches above the top of the beans. Let soak for several hours or overnight.
2. Drain the beans and put them in a saucepan. Add the 8 cups of water and salt, pepper, carrot, onion, bay leaf, clove of garlic and parsley sprigs. Bring to a boil and simmer one hour or until the beans are tender but not mushy.
3. While the beans cook, heat the butter. Add the chopped onions and garlic. Cook and stir until the onions are translucent. Add the tomatoes and thyme; salt and pepper to taste. Simmer for 15 minutes.
4. When the beans are done, strain them. Reserve 1 cup of the cooking liquid. Add the beans and the reserved cooking liquid to the tomato sauce. Bring to the boil. Check seasoning and simmer for 15 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley before serving.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Roast Chicken

1 chicken, 3 to 3½ pounds, with giblets
1 bay leaf
2 sprigs fresh thyme or ½ teaspoon dried
1 clove garlic, peeled
Salt to taste
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 whole onion, peeled and cut in half
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup chicken stock
¼ cup water.

1. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees.
2. Stuff the chicken with the bay leaf, thyme and garlic. Sprinkle inside and out with salt and pepper to taste. Truss the chicken with string.
3. Place the chicken in a shallow roasting pan. Rub with the oil. Place the chicken on its side and scatter the neck, gizzard, liver and onion halves around it.
4. Place the chicken in the oven and roast it 20 minutes, basting occasionally. Turn the chicken on its other side. Roast for 20 minutes, basting occasionally. Remove all the fat from the roasting pan. Place the chicken on its back. Add the butter, chicken stock and water. Roast for 20 minutes longer, basting. When cooked, the chicken should be golden brown all over and no red juice should flow when the joint between the thigh and leg is pierced with a fork. Use a fork and lift the chicken up to let the cavity juices flow into the pan. Baste the chicken with the juices.
5. Untruss the chicken. Remove and discard the bay leaves, thyme and garlic. Carve the chicken into serving pieces. Place the roasting pan on top of the stove. Bring the pan gravy to the boil, stirring and scraping. Serve chicken with hot gravy.

Yield: 4 servings.

Purée de Pommes de Terre

2½ pounds russet potatoes
1 cup coarsely sliced onions
Salt to taste
1½ cups milk
6 tablespoons butter.

1. Peel the potatoes and cut them into 2-inch cubes.
2. Place the potatoes and onions in a saucepan and cover with cold water. Add salt. Bring to a boil and simmer 20 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Do not overcook them.
3. Meanwhile, heat the milk until hot.
4. Drain the potatoes and onions and put them through a food mill or potato ricer. Return them to the saucepan. Using a wooden spatula, add the butter and blend well. Mix in milk. Keep warm until ready to serve.

Yield: 8 servings.

Boeuf Bourguignonne

½ pound salt pork, cut into ¼-inch cubes, blanched in water
4 pounds lean, boneless chuck or brisket, cut into 1½-inch cubes
Salt to taste
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1 tablespoon chopped garlic
24 pearl white onions, about ¾ pound, peeled
1 pound small button mushrooms
5 tablespoons flour
5 cups dry red Burgundy wine
2 whole cloves
2 whole allspice
1 bay leaf
½ tespoon dried thyme
4 parsley sprigs.

1. Using a large, heavy skillet over medium heat, add the cubes of salt pork. Cook, stirring with a slotted spoon, until they are crisp. Remove the cubes and set aside. Leave the rendered fat in the skillet.
2. Add the cubes of beef to the skillet. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and brown over high heat, stirring and turning the pieces often, for about 10 minutes.
3. Add the garlic, onions and mushrooms, stirring often. Sprinkle with flour and stir to coat evenly.
4. Add the wine and stir. Add the saltpork cubes, cloves, allspice, bay leaf, thyme and parsley; salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer for 1½ hours or until meat is tender.
5. Remove the bay leaf, parsley sprigs and any fat on top.

Yield: 10 servings.

Oeufs à la Neige

4 cups milk
¾ cups granulated sugar
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract or 1 vanilla bean
6 eggs, separated
Pinch of salt.

1. Put the milk in a large saucepan and add 6 tablespoons of the sugar and vanilla. Bring to a simmer, stirring.
2. Meanwhile, beat the egg whites until they are almost stiff. Sprinkle with 6 tablespoons of sugar and salt and continue beating until the mixture is quite stiff.
3. Using two large spoons, mold the meringue into oval shapes and slide them onto the top of the simmering milk. Make a few at a time, until there are 12. Cook about 30 to 40 seconds on one side and carefully turn to cook on the second side. Cook 30 to 40 seconds on the second side and remove. Drain on paper towels. Continue until all the meringue has been cooked.
4. Strain the milk.
5. Put the egg yolks in a saucepan and beat them until they are light and lemon colored. Gradually add the milk to the yolks, beating constantly. Use a wooden spoon and stir constantly over low heat, making certain that the spoon touches all over the bottom of the saucepan. Cook, stirring, until the mixture has a custard-like consistency and coats the sides of the spoon. Do not let the sauce boil or it will curdle.
6. Immediately remove the sauce from the stove and continue stirring. Let the sauce cool to room temperature, then ladle over the meringue.

Yield: 10 servings.

Roast Leg of Lamb

1 leg of lamb, 6 to 7 pounds, oven ready
3 cloves garlic, cut into 12 slivers
1 tablespoon oil
1 tablespoon rosemary
Salt to taste
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1 medium-size onion, peeled and cut in half crosswise
¾ cup water.

1. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees.
2. Prepare the leg of lamb for roasting by cutting away the hipbone and excess fat. Set the bone aside.
3. With a paring knife, make 12 small incisions in the meat and insert a sliver of garlic in each.
4. Rub the lamb with oil and place it in a roasting pan. Rub with rosemary and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add an onion half on each side.
5. Roast the lamb on the bottom rack of the oven, basting every 15 to 20 minutes. After one hour of cooking, remove all the fat from the pan and add the water.
6. Continue roasting for 15 minutes or until the internal temperature reaches 140 degrees for medium rare.
7. Remove from the oven and place the bone under the roast to serve as a rack in the pan. Keep warm for 15 minutes. Carve and serve with the pan gravy.

Yield: 8 servings.

Tax

Use of the peel-off label will avoid one of the most common errors found on tax returns--illegible or incorrect listing of social security numbers. The label is designed to expedite processing the tax return at the IRS Service Center.

There is a common misconception that using the peel-off label will trigger an examination of your return. This is incorrect. The coding on the label identifies the taxpayer and the kind of forms contained in their tax package.

Filing your return late does not lessen your chance for an examination. The time you file your income tax return during the filing season does not affect how the return is selected for examination. All tax returns receive the same screening process regardless of when they are filed.

The largest percentage of errors found on tax returns are math errors. Check to see that your arithmetic is correct before filing your return. If you rounded your numbers, round consistantly throughout the return.

Ginger Schiffler Serves As Intern

OLYMPIA -- Ginger Schiffler, daughter of Bud and Joyce Schiffler of Bellingham, is serving as an intern for 27th District Rep. Art Wang. Schiffler is a 24-year-old senior at The Evergreen State College.

"This program provides a good opportunity for people to get to know how the Legislature works. I don't think people realize how complex it is," said Schiffler.

Schiffler's background in Political Science has proven helpful in her work for Rep. Wang. She has been spending her time tracking and researching bills, and responding to concerned constituents.

"I am particularly concerned with the insurance liability issue. It is essential for people to be able to get insurance when they need it.

"The insurance commissioner needs to be given more control so that we can regulate the insurance companies. Insurance needs to be affordable and available," said Schiffler.

After graduating from Evergreen, Schiffler plans to enroll in law school.

Bishop Tutu Intercedes Between Police And Black Protesters

ALEXANDRA, South Africa, Bishop Desmond M. Tutu interceded between the police and black protesters persuading thousands of people holding a mass rally to disperse rather than risk confrontation with heavily armed soldiers and policemen.

The episode was only the latest crisis in this black township near Johannesburg's white suburbs, where the authorities said that 19 people had been killed in three days of rioting. The death toll was the worst this year from a single area.

Army units threw a cordon around the township after a third day of riots that left the bleak and dusty segregated area reverberating to the sound of gunfire.

The outbreak of violence, closer than usual to white areas, was widely viewed here as certain to embarrass the authorities on the eve of talks in London on Thursday designed to reschedule part of the nation's $24 billion foreign debt; frozen for over four months.

Western creditor banks are pressing for evidence of political liberalization in return for rescheduling the debt, and the latest violence seemed certain to undermine the foreign confidence that the Government has sought to nurture in advance of the discussions.

In Parliament in Cape Town, Adriaan Flok, who is deputy minister of both defense and law and order, said the police killed 16 blacks in Alexandra during street battles with protesters.

St. Martin College Receives $ 1.175 Million

Only 2/3's of the way into its fiscal year, SAINT MARTIN'S COLLEGE has topped the $1 million mark in gifts and pledges. More than doubling all of last year's receipts, the school went over the million dollar milestone with a $150,000 donation from a long-time alumnae benefactor. To-date gifts and pledges total $1.175 million.

"I believe the alumni and the community as a whole are sensing that we are doing more things right," state Dr. David Spangler, President of the college, when questioned about why the school has taken such strides in fund raising. "We have a vision of growth for the future to more than double our student body by 1990. We still lead in the field of computer education for teachers and will dramatically enhance other academic computer offerings with a $125,000 grant from the Murdock Charitable Trust. This growth will complement the fine liberal arts tradition we maintain in our course offerings."

Dr. Spangler further stressed that SAINT MARTIN'S success comes from a renewed and strengthened commitment to the school by its staff and faculty.

"Everyone is working especially hard to see SAINT MARTIN'S grow and build on its history of educational excellence. Throughout the college employees continually do more than what is asked of them."

Cautioning, however, not to be overly optimistic, Dr. Spangler stated, "While pleased with the strides already made, SAINT MARTIN'S recognizes a significant continuing need. Years of austerity and major challenges for higher education will require a long-range program of increased support at dramatically higher levels of funding to maintain our excellent educational program."

SAINT MARTIN'S highest total annual giving in its history has been $654,000 during the 1982-1983 fiscal year at the end of a capital campaign called "New Foundations." Last year the college raised 536,000.

Errors And Misconceptions When Filling Tax Return

SEATTLE, WASHINGTON -- If you are expecting a tax refund tis year, Dick Wightman, IRS Spokesperson said, a quick check for accuracy can help speed up the processing of your Federal income tax return. Simple errors can cause weeks of delay in processing the return.

There are two common misconceptions people have when they are filing their Federal income tax return--use of the peel-off label will trigger an examination of the return, and if you file late you will lessen your chance for an examination.
